BEHIND THE MEDICAL HEADLINES

This site aims to provide the public and health professionals with equitable access to authoritative and independent commentaries from leading medical experts on articles or news items which appear in the media in an attempt to reduce the confusion which can often arise from conflicting, incomplete or misleading media reports of medical areas. Published articles cover a diverse range of areas and are intended to provide a longer term overview rather than an instant response.

MEDICAL VISUALISATION NETWORK

The Network brings medical practitioners, medical educators, and academics together with technical, visualisation and industrial experts to identify key areas in future practice-based research where 3D visualisation and interaction will support medical learning and teaching, surgical planning and rehearsal. Research will focus on the development of new interactive techniques to dynamically visualise the Human Body in 3D.
